TRUST BOOSTED PRICE

OF ICE 100 PER CENT Testimony to That Effect Before New York District Attorney.

New York, July 16.—Mayor Gaynor's crusade against the so-called ice trust assumed dramatic features today when independent ice dealers swarmed to a public meeting to recite their alleged grievances. The police department and the district attorney's office, both of which have been investigating the af-fairs of the Knickerbocker and American Ice companies, were represented, and a stenographer took down every pertinent statement.

When the speaking was over the dealers stepped into an adjoining room and made oath to the truth of their statements.

Some of the dealers complained that the Knickerbocker company had re-fused to sell to them during the recent hot spell and at the same time had retailed ice to their customers. Others declared that the price had been boosted 100 per cent, or more. Joseph Sheridan, the chairman, declared that many so-called independent wholesale dealers were not independent at all. Still others claimed that while they had to pay $5 a ton for ice to the wholesaler, the wholesale dealer had sold their customers direct at $2 a

At the close of the meeting Assistant District Attorney DeFord announced that the state would enforce the Connelly anti-trust law if sufficient evidence of the existence of a monopoly were obtained. The dealers' depositions were given to detectives who are con-tinuing the police investigation.
